BENNING PROGRAM PROVES ATTRACTIVE

Crowds Flock to Playgrounds and Bathing Beach Draws Many.

Artisans in gala attire, men of labor imbued with the quest for recreation; men, women, and children, clerks, officials, everyone, overspread the woods the street cars, pressed aboard the river boats today, for the mad, contrary, rol-licking spirit of the artisans' holiday

Fair weather and a lingering breath of summer in the air, the hum of bust-ness stilled for twenty-four hours-that was Labor Day, 1910.

And when the crowds leave the pleasure parks of Washington; when the myriad lights are extinguished; when the last river boat whistles for her dock late tonight, and the last weary crew turns in at the car barns, Labor Day, 1916, will not only be history, but will have seen the death of summer, for the excursion places close today.

Today marked also the opening of another season of recreation, as well as the closing of one, for the theaters of city threw wide their doors this afternoon, and began their regular winter bookings.

seen at the Benning race track. The workingman's amusements were there. The workingman's friends througed the place. The rush of fast horses around the long-disused track sent the blood tingling to the artisan's head. He and his friends looked on while athletes strove in muscle-straining contest; he shouted himself hoarse when the teams of the Ninth Street Christian Church and the Columbia machinists walked upon the diamond, and when the Florida ostrich, "Cyclone," was pitted in specifies and mary tots, accompanied by their parents, took advantage of this friends declared that no more novel or auusing sight has ever been withesed at any celebration of labor's holiday. For those who do not belong to the ranks of labor, many and varied were the sports. The marshes at Benning were by daybreak filled with sportsmen. to make the congress a success.

The question of housing the crowds is becoming serious as hotels and boarding houses are practically all filled. Some who came yesterday from New York left at night for Niggara and Toronto and gave up the congress as they could get no place to stay.

Father Bernard Vaughan, the noted English settlement worker, is being shown marked attention by all the prelates.

Program of the Week.

The congress will last a week. The chief features will be the ecclesiastical reception of the cardinal legate, by Mgr. Bruchesi and the assembled prelates representing divorse countries, at St. James' Cathedral; the civic welcome at the city hall, the nontifical mass in the open air at the foot of Mt. Royal, and the public procession through the streets of Montreal, which will be the crowning incident of the Euchardst in this procession. Fifty thousand loyal Catholics will participate in this public manifestation of faich, and the indications are that twice that number will line the four miles of streets over which the pulgrims will march to Mt. Royal.

City and provincial officials, attired in the robes of their office, will march to Mt. Royal.

The United States will have an important part in this final ceremony.

Delegations from the Holy Name Society and conferences of the St. Vincent de Paul Society are expected from nearly every ecclesiastical province in America. The Catholic Club, of New York, which has on its list laymen and priests from every State in the Union, will lead the delegations from the States. Two hundred members of this club will leave New York on a special train on September 8.

BALTIMORE. Sept. 5.—Labor Day was generally observed in Baltimore. Governor Crothers' proclamation, declaring the day a legal holiday, in recognition of the toilers, was met with enthusiasm. The annual parade of the workers was dispensed with, and in its stead numerous outings and richies were held.

The local unionists had a gigantic picular at Electric Park. Hicidantally, it may be stated, that Congressional candidates were on hand, and all made the stock promise.

Orphans from the various charitable institutions were great beneficiaries. The little ones were entertained in a manner that made their little hearts glad. There were the usual extra sporting attractions.

Lot Flannery, a well-known sculptor, was arraigned in Police Court today on a charge of shooting and seriously may be a charge of shooting and seriously.
